Molotov Backs Red China on All-Asian Pact

Charges Failure to Recognize China Affects Situation

GENEVA (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov today supported Red China's call for an all-Asian security pact, and charged that United States refusal to recognize the Chinese Reds was part of American "aggressive" policy.

Molotov, addressing the fourth session of the Far Eastern peace conference, backed previously outlined proposals by Red China's Premier Chou En Lai, including Chou's demand for withdrawal of all foreign troops in Korea and for Soviet-style elections.

Molotov charged that U. S. failure to recognize Red China was "affecting the whole situation in Asia today."

The Russian foreign minister's uncompromising stand completed the deadlock on the Korean issue.

Oppose Red Korea Plan
The 16 nations which fought communism in Korea agreed unanimously today to reject the Russian and Chinese-sponsored Communist plan to reunite Korea on Kremlin terms.

However, a new note of hope was added to negotiations for a peace conference on Indochina, the other main issue on the conference agenda. Bao Dai, chief of state of Viet Nam in Indochina, was reported to have agreed to end his stubborn boycott of any meeting which included representatives of the Viet Minh Communist rebels.

Bao Dai, under strong French and American pressure, thus removed a principal stumbling block to conferences on peace in Indochina and removal of French wounded from the besieged fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Molotov also repeated his claim for great-power status for Red China as one of the "big five" attending the Geneva conference.

Moderate in Tone

Molotov said the Geneva conference would reach a peaceful settlement of the Korean question "if it proceeds from the principle that the peoples of Asia have the full right to settle their own affairs themselves, that it is, first, and foremost, their own business."

Molotov's speech was surprisingly moderate in tone, his charges against the United States being limited mainly to the accusation of "aggression" against Red China. As did Chou En Lai Wednesday, he expressed regret that the conference did not include India, Indonesia, Burma, Pakistan and other Asiatic nations.

Yields On Point
The Western Big Three and France in particular have been pressing for an immediate start of efforts to end the bloody and costly 7-year-old Indochinese conflict.

Up to now these efforts have been snagged on Bao Dai's refusal to negotiate with representatives of Minh. Russia had refused to agree to any conference from which Ho's representatives were excluded.

Bao Dai yielded on the point after the U. S. ambassador to Viet Nam, Donald Heath, and two high French officials had flown to Cannes to apply pressure to the reluctant Indochinese ruler.

On Conservation Tour That Stopped Here

Conservation Director Predicts Wild Turkey, Grouse for Area

State Advisory Board, Other Officials Hold Meeting Here

Wild turkey and ruffed grouse in this area is not just a dream, the director of the Department of Conservation, State of Illinois, said here last night.

He is Glen Palmer, who was here with the Advisory Board of the Department of Conservation and conservation officials, who are touring southern Illinois. The group spent the night here and a dinner meeting was held at the Elks home, with L. W. Riley the host.

Palmer, who praised the work of Robert G. Miley of Galatia as superintendent of parks and memorials, said he hoped his department can bring wild turkey and ruffed grouse into the southern Illinois area so that they establish themselves.

"And I understand that the first release will be close to Saline county," he added.

Miley presided at the dinner, attended by about 35 persons.

Areas Visited

The group had toured southern Illinois properties owned and operated by the department, and had visited Giant City State park, where a formal meeting was held Tuesday night, Lake Murphysboro, the Union County State Forest and Nursery, the Union County Wildlife refuge, Horseshoe Lake, and Dixon Springs state park. The group also visited the Devil's Kitchen dam site.

Today the busload of conservationists are visiting the Mt. Vernon game farm and Lake Ramsey en route home.

Miley also presided at the informal meeting and introduced the following visitors:

Advisory board members: Chairman Charles G. Sauer, director of the Cook County Forest Preserve district; Secretary Robert C. O'Hair, Glen Ellyn, who also is national secretary of the Izaak Walton League; William E. Hewitt of East St. Louis, past president of the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's clubs; Arthur E. Hill of Dundee, head of the Hill Nurseries; John R. Parker of Lincoln, secretary of the Illinois Title association; Robert Greenaway, editor of the DeKalb Chronicle; and Ray Hunter, director of Natural Resources, Illinois Agricultural association.

Two other members of the board, Max McGraw of Dundee and Walter B. Sommer, Peoria, were not present.

Others on Tour

Department of Conservation personnel on tour are:

Glen D. Palmer, Yorkville, director; Lewis E. Martin, Springfield, assistant director; Sam A. Parr, Decatur, administrative assistant and superintendent of the division of fisheries;

Robert G. Miley, Galatia, superintendent of the division of parks and memorials; Joe B. Davidson, Monticello, superintendent of game management; Jack Montgomery, Virginia, superintendent of the division of game management.

Mayor Horning Appoints Rumsey City Attorney

Mayor Ralph Horning Jr. today announced appointment of Attorney D. F. Rumsey as city attorney of Harrisburg, succeeding Attorney Scieral Thompson.

Mayor Horning said his action was due to Mr. Thompson's illness, which makes it impossible for him to handle the duties of the office. He said also that it is likely the City Council at its next meeting, with consent of the Water Board, will name Mr. Rumsey to take over as attorney for the Harrisburg water improvement project now under way.

The mayor said this action was indicated because of the urgency of matters connected with the water project. Mr. Thompson was appointed city attorney by Mayor Horning at the outset of the present administration, and Mr. Thompson was named by the Water Board and Council as special attorney to handle the water improvement project.

Funeral Services Held at Carmi For Accident Victim

The funeral of Vertis Barbre, well-known Carmi funeral director who met death late Tuesday in an auto accident when returning from the Deaconess hospital in Evansville, Ind., was today at 3 p. m. at the Carmi Methodist church. Rev. John Henderson officiated and burial was in the Maple Ridge cemetery.

Banks Pleads Guilty, Fined In County Court

Enters Plea After Examination by Medical Commission

James Harrison Banks, scheduled to be tried before a jury today on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol, pleaded guilty to the charge just before noon after a medical commission found him able to appear in court.

Banks, who pleaded innocent to the charge following his arrest last July by state police, was fined $200 and costs by County Judge Ralph W. Chissoer and his driver's license will be forwarded to the secretary of state.

Thus ends a case which has been continued from time to time and which caused State's Attorney Glen O. Jones to demand with emphasis today that something be done this time.

A few months ago Banks and his attorney, Scieral Thompson, appeared in court with a statement from a Pope county doctor which said he was too ill to appear in court. Chissoer continued the case but said that if illness were the reason the next time the case came up, he would appoint a medical commission to examine him. This he did.

Objection by Jones
Today Banks was in court with Atty. Jack Morris, associate of Thompson, and continuance was sought on grounds of illness and the fact that Atty. Thompson could not be in court. They had a statement from a Hardin county doctor.

State's Attorney Jones then objected strenuously, declaring the case had "carried on and on" for nearly a year, and contended that if the defendant wanted to act in good faith, he would have come in beforehand with his statement instead of waiting until a jury, which would have to be paid by the county, was present.

Jones also said the defendant "knew that his attorney wouldn't be here today long before now."

"This obviously is part of a delaying action that has dogged this case for almost a year," he said.

"It's the same old song—not that he's too sick to miss work, but that he's too sick to be tried. No body has been born who is immune to the law."

Chissoer then appointed Dr. B. E. Montgomery, Dr. G. R. Johnson and Dr. N. A. Herrmann as a medical commission to examine Banks. They did so and returned a report to the court that in their opinion Banks was able to appear in court.

The case was scheduled to start at 1 p. m. when he pleaded guilty.

American Carrier Arrives in Indochina

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — An American aircraft carrier, manned by a French crew, arrived in Indochinese waters tonight with reinforcements of planes to bolster the defense of besieged Dien Bien Phu.

New Pastors at First, McKinley And Dorrisville Baptist Churches

The pulpits of Harrisburg's three largest Baptist churches, which have been vacant for varied periods up to several months, have been filled almost simultaneously.

The churches are the First Baptist, the McKinley Avenue Baptist and the Dorrisville Baptist.

At Dorrisville, the Rev. Wm. B. Fuson, former pastor of the Galatia Baptist church, has accepted a call, and has moved to the church parsonage at 1001 West Longley street.

At the First Baptist, the congregation Wednesday night unanimously called the Rev. R. J. Morman of Hail Center, Texas, who occupied the pulpit last Sunday. The pulpit committee contacted him, and he announced he was available, as of May 23, saying he and Mrs. Morman had determined before leaving here that they would accept a call if proffered.

A similar action was taken Wednesday night at the McKinley Avenue church. The Rev. J. D. McCarty of Murphysboro was called, and he accepted early this morning. Rev. McCarty is now a student at Southern Illinois university at Carbondale. He will continue his studies there, completing his work in December, but his work requires his attendance only on week-day mornings, and he will have time available for his church duties. He will be here as of May 16.

Additional information on Rev. Morman and Rev. McCarty will be carried in The Daily Register before they take up their pastorates. Rev. Fuson comes to Dorrisville church after a fruitful pastorate with Galatia Baptist church. Having served there for 21 months, Rev. Fuson saw the church prosper both materially and spiritually. During the first half of this fiscal year, the church made much improvement on properties without debt and has seen 41 additions to its membership, 31 of these being by the initial rite of baptism.

Stevens' Counsel Accused Of Attempting to Influence Fort Monmouth Commander

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pvt. G. David Schline, central figure in the Army-McCarthy dispute, walked into the Senate caucus room today shortly before the afternoon session was scheduled to start.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens' counsel was accused today of trying to get the commander of Ft. Monmouth to withdraw security suspension recommendations at a time when Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) was investigating alleged subversion at the radar center.

Stevens said it is "entirely possible" that he told his counsel, John

G. Adams, to take such action, though he did not recall doing so. He said it also is "entirely possible" that Adams acted on his own. The charge was made in a written statement by the Monmouth commander's aide and was presented at the 11th session of the Senate investigating subcommittee's hearings on the Army-McCarthy feud. It was produced during cross-examination of Stevens on McCarthy's charge the secretary tried to block his investigation last fall at the Army's New Jersey Signal Corps installation.

Highlights of Session

According to the charge, Adams telephoned the Ft. Monmouth commander, Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton, and asked him if he would withdraw his suspension recommendations. Lawton refused, as asserting that was Stevens' "responsibility."

The 11th session produced these highlights:

1. McCarthy said Lawton showed "a lot of guts" in cooperating with his investigation though the general said it would "kill his chances of promotion." McCarthy produced a report showing an Army promotion board did "pass over" Lawton.

2. Stevens, who said he once considered removing Lawton from Ft. Monmouth, denied he had planned any "reprisal" against him. He said he wanted Lawton and all other commanders to use good judgment and not start a stampede of suspensions for "guilt by association."

3. Pressed by hearing counsel Ray H. Jenkins for a "yes-or-no" answer as to whether he ordered Adams to make the call to Lawton, Stevens said Jenkins was taking "one incident out of perspective."

Hope For Speedup

4. Stevens showed signs of wearying after six days of testifying. McCarthy said he had lots more questions to ask but would not object to Stevens taking an hour or a day off the witness stand whenever he got too tired.

5. President Eisenhower said at his news conference today he hoped the hearings would be quickly concluded. Subcommittee members hoped a speedup would be possible, lest the investigation drag on all summer. They met secretly today and will meet again later to see how the hearings can be expedited.

Nickell Has Narrow Escape In Lost Plane

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Vernon L. Nickell, state superintendent of public instruction, said today his narrow escape in a lost airplane Tuesday was "something you wouldn't want to do again."

Nickell's chartered plane had compass trouble and got lost in a "ceiling-zero" fog en route from Rockford to Springfield about midnight Tuesday. The pilot finally spotted a little village and a highway, and landed on the highway—U. S. 66, near Towanda.

"I wasn't exactly scared," Nickell said. "Just not very comfortable."

"The weather forecast out of Rockford had been fine, with ceilings no lower than 1,700 feet," he said. "About 75 miles out I noticed something was wrong with the magnetic compass. I told the pilot the thing was crazy."

"After about 25 minutes I noticed he was somewhat worried. The gas wasn't at the bottom but it was closer to the bottom than I'd like to have had it."

"I wasn't excited, just busy scanning for some lights or something. Finally we got a break and saw where we were. Then we saw the highway, and landed," he said.

Nickell said fortunately the highway at 1 a. m. was not heavily traveled and "the good Lord provided a break in the traffic at just the right time."

The two men pulled the plane off onto a cross road and hitchhiked to Springfield.

Robert Keltner Joins Staff at Rainbow Drug Store

The Rainbow drug store today announced that Robert Keltner, well-known local pharmacist, is joining the staff of the store Saturday.

Mr. Keltner has been associated with drug stores in the city for a number of years.

The store also announced that Wanda Burns, a registered pharmacist at the store, is leaving today for St. Louis, where she has accepted a position.

Rainbow's has two other registered pharmacists, Manager Howard Coyle and George Herrmann.

President Hits Proposal to Ban Troops

Says Flexible Authority Needed to Meet Situations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower reasserted today the United States will not become involved in war in Indochina or anywhere without a declaration by Congress.

Mr. Eisenhower repeated his previously stated assurance at a news conference shortly before he met with his National Security Council to consider what measures might be taken to help the French in Indochina.

Although Mr. Eisenhower did not mention it today, he has explained before that in event of an attack on this country, he of course would not wait for a declaration by Congress before putting our armed forces into action.

He opposed today a pending proposal in the House which would hamper him in sending American troops anywhere in the world. He said flexibility of authority is needed to deal with what he called fluid international situations.

Broad Talks With British
The President was guarded in giving his views on the tense Southeast Asia situation where France is confronted with a military and political crisis.

He hoped the Geneva conference would arrive at some practical basis for getting along in the Far East without war.

The President refused to say whether France had asked for American planes flown by American pilots to be dispatched to Indochina. He said he would not object to discussing the question in detail after the Geneva meeting. He would not say whether he had rejected such a French request.

Mr. Eisenhower said such questions as sending American air power to Indochina had been discussed within this government and with congressional leaders. But he said such specific questions had not been taken up with the British. Any talks with the British, he said, had been on a broader basis.

As for his hopes for Geneva, the President said that in seeking a modus vivendi — or temporary arrangement of live and let live — the United States was steering a course between what he called the unattainable and unacceptable extremes.

Opposes Partition
The unacceptable extreme, he said, would be to see the whole anti-Communist world in Asia crumble under communism. The unattainable, he said, would be the development of a completely satisfactory system with the Communists.

This leaves, he continued, the goal of reaching a practical basis for getting along. He pointed to the Allied-Russian situation in Germany as an example.

Under questioning, however, he said this country would not be

WSIL-TV Off Air Last Night; Plan Programs Tonight

WSIL-TV was off the air last night because of technical difficulties.

Because of the troubles none of the programs could be shown. It was announced this morning that it is believed the difficulties have been overcome and that programs are planned for tonight.

The programs missed last night will be shown next Wednesday evening.

The fact that the television station was off the air flooded the telephone company switchboards. Manager Millard Lynch reported today.

Mr. Lynch said that so many calls came in between 6 and 10 p. m. that they could not be handled, even with county and long distance operators assisting those taking care of local calls.

There would be as many as 150 calls on the boards at a time, he said, and all could not be handled.

McKendree College Choir Presents Concert at High School Bonnell Gym

By John Schork

The McKendree choir from McKendree college at Lebanon presented its concert last evening in Bonnell gym. Originally scheduled to be held in the Methodist church, the program had to be transferred to the high school after the church building was abandoned by the congregation recently to be removed to make room for construction of a new building.

The choir certainly deserved a better audience than was present. Those who went expecting to hear the usual hackneyed program traditional with small church college choirs (McKendree is a Methodist institution) were in for a surprise. The first glance at the printed program revealed that the present director, Glenn H. Freiner, has brought to his position a desire to acquaint his singers with fine choral literature that is refreshingly different. I think it is an excellent idea for both choir and audience. The whole repertoire was good music and in the best of taste.

Mr. Freiner has obviously worked hard to achieve the present excellence of his ensemble. They were exceptionally well disciplined and responsive to his directing, which incidentally is inclined to be theatrical. The highlight of the evening was Ingeger's "Tenebrae Factas Sunt." The tonal beauty in this number surpassed anything else the choir did. Randall Thompson's hauntingly moving "Al-luia" could have matched it but for a failure to make the most of dynamic extremes.

Here as often throughout the program there was opportunity for some lovely pianissimo singing. Somehow it seemed not to have the delicate intensity it deserved.

A group of four sketches from Walt Whitman's poetry were so unusual to the audience that it was thrown completely off balance and didn't even applaud. They came back to normal again for the two final numbers, however, and made up for lost time. The program closed with a rousing performance of Dawson's arrangement of a Negro spiritual, "Soon Ah Will Be Done."

I have heard McKendree choir on many occasions in the past. This year's is the best of the lot. They present a superior program and do it better. Mr. Freiner and his group may justly be proud. I only wish more people could have heard them.

Dr. Theodore Pittenger, professor of stringed instruments at the college, provided an interlude of violin music after the intermission to be followed by a delightful group of madrigals by the chapel choir.

First Church of God Builders Class Has Picnic

The Builders Sunday school class from the Charleston street First Church of God met Saturday evening for a picnic at Karel park.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Kestner Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McNeece and daughter, Sandra, Jeanette Pollard, Lindell Alexander, Beulah Lievers, Virden Dale, Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Fisher and children, Janet and Wendell.

Saline Garden Club Meets With Mrs. Nelle Meyers

Mrs. Nelle Meyers was hostess to the Saline County Garden club which met Tuesday afternoon. The arrangement of the month, displayed by Mrs. Meyers, was a combination of purple and yellow iris.

During the business session announcement was made of the local flower show which will be held May 14 and of which Mrs. Bess Hagler will be chairman, and of the flower show school which will be held at Carbondale May 3, 4, and 5. A flower show will be held at Cape Girardeau May 15 and 16. This will be a consolidation of seven garden clubs.

For the program of the afternoon Mrs. Ed Gaskins spoke on "Look What Happened to the Zinnias," and Mrs. B. Hutton gave expert advice on "How to Win at a Flower Show."

The president, Mrs. R. D. Brown, presided during the meeting. The hostess committee was composed of Mrs. A. M. Hetherington, Mrs. Norman Benson and Mrs. Arthur Franks.

Philip Hancock, of Springfield, visited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hancock, this past week end.

Governors Create Group to Aid Coal Industry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Governors of major coal-producing states have set up a permanent organization to help the sick coal industry.

As their first recommendation, the governors called for immediate legislation to restrict residual fuel oil imports.

The permanent organization was created as a result of a conference called by Pennsylvania's Gov. John S. Fine. Governors or their representatives from 16 states attended.

The permanent organization will be headed by Fine as chairman, Gov. W. C. Marland of West Virginia as vice chairman and Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois as secretary.

The executive committee also includes Govs. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, Lawrence W. Wetherby of Kentucky, George N. Craig of Indiana and Johnston Murray of Oklahoma.

Mrs. Laura DeBoard, 92, Of Norris City Dies

Mrs. Laura DeBoard, 92, long time resident of Norris City and the widow of Millage DeBoard, died yesterday at 9 a. m. in the Carmi Township hospital, following a fall from which she suffered a broken hip.

She was the mother of Mrs. Ed-gar Floa, Norris City.

The funeral will be Friday at 2 p. m. at the Norris City Presby-terian church. Rev. Leo Copeland will officiate, and burial will be in the Union cemetery.

The body is now at the Turner funeral home.

Mrs. Marion Dennis, 24, was shot in the leg by her husband, police said, as she attempted to flee from the house during the gunfight.

Four other officers suffered min- or wounds during the siege as Den- nis moved from window to window spraying the yard and street with shotgun pellets.

Mrs. W. E. Zimmers Dies at Rosiclare

Mrs. Mary L. Zimmers, 87, wife of Will E. Zimmers, died at their home in Rosiclare yesterday at 3:45 p. m. following a long illness.

The body is now at the Rottman funeral chapel where it will re- main until funeral time, plans of which await the arrival of relatives from a distance.

Besides her husband she is sur- vived by two sons, Andy Zimmers, Vienna, and Charley Zimmers, Ro- siclare; three daughters, Mrs. Mag- gie Shetler and Mrs. Anna Shel- ler, both of Rosiclare, and Mrs. Agnes O'Neal, Rock Spring, Wyo- ming; and one brother, George Herrmann, Eichorn.

Meek Assured of Administration Support

WASHINGTON — Joseph T. Meek said Wednesday he and other Illinois GOP congressional candi- dates have "assurance of full and complete support" from the ad- ministration and its campaign committees.

Meek, Republican candidate for the Senate seat now held by Dem- ocratic Sen. Paul H. Douglas, is- sued the statement after a lunch with other Illinois Republican con- gressional aspirants at the Cap- itol.

Former Queen

Narriman to

Marry Doctor

CAIRO, Egypt —Farouk's former queen, Narriman, announced today she will marry a handsome young doctor who now is earning only $140 a month while getting started in his profession.

The beautiful Narriman had to get court permission to remarry because she is still under the age limit of 21. She will observe her 21st birthday next October.

Narriman, whose storybook ro- mance with former King Farouk ended in divorce and disillusion- ment, said she would wed Dr. R. Adham El Nakeeb next week.

She said she met the sandy- haired young physician last sum- mer at the fashionable resort of Alexandria where she occupied a villa next to his.

Narriman's prospective father-in-law was sentenced by the re- volutionary tribunal last summer for aiding in the corruption of po- litical life in Egypt during the days of royalty.

Since her return from exile Nar- riman has fought a running battle with the Egyptian press which has carried reports that she was preg- nant, engaged to an Oriental cro- oner and marrying El Nakeeb.

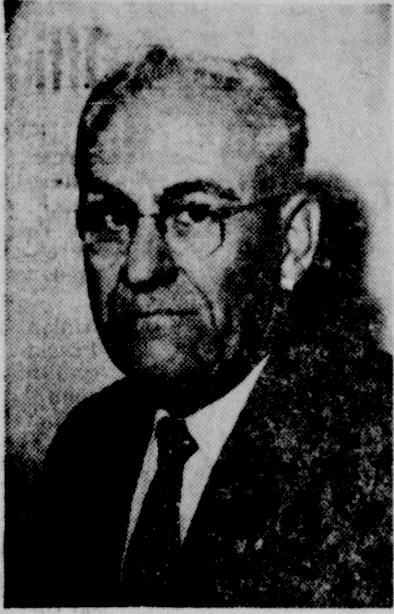

Narriman's infant son Fouad is in exile with Farouk and she and her mother have been forced to take in boarders.

She was divorced last Feb. 2 from Farouk, who first noticed her in a fashionable Cairo store. After the revolution of July, 1952, Narri- man said her marriage to Farouk was contracted against her will.

Continental defense: No defense is ever completely adequate, but we are working on a program which he believes will provide what he likes to call a state of respect- able posture.

Bi-partisan foreign policy: De- spite complaints of some Dem- ocrats in Congress, Mr. Eisenhower said the administration is doing all it can to keep the leaders of both parties fully informed about Indochina on the theory that no difficulty abroad affects only one party at home.

Named District Manager by Post Office Dep't

Martin H. Albert

Martin H. Albert, East St. Louis, a career postal employee for 40 years and a member of the Post Office Inspection Service, has been appointed St. Louis District manager under the Post Office Department's recently inaugurated decentralization program. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced today at Washington.

Mr. Albert, who has spent many years as postal inspector in the State of Illinois, will be one of a group of eight district managers in the tri-state area of Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan, who will report to Regional headquarters in Chicago under the new operations plan. He will be sworn in as district manager by Assistant Postmaster General Norman R. Abrams at special ceremonies in Chicago on April 30.

Mr. Albert will be in charge of postal operations in the following Illinois counties: Alexander, Bond, Calhoun, Clark, Clay, Clinton, Coles, Crawford, Cumberland, Douglas, Edgar, Edwards, Effingham, Fayette, Franklin, Gallatin, Greene, Hamilton, Hardin, Jackson, Jasper, Jefferson, Jersey, Johnson, Lawrence, Macoupin, Madison, Marion, Massac, Monroe, Montgomery, Moultrie, Perry, Pope, Pulaski, Randolph, Richland, Saint Clair, Saline, Shelby, Union, Wabash, Washington, Wayne, White, Williamson.

Local Group Attends Christian Missionary Society District Meeting

The 37th convention of the Christian churches of the Southern District of the Illinois Christian Missionary society met Tuesday at the First Christian church in Marion.

Attending from Harrisburg were Mrs. Roy Adams, Mrs. Carrie Young, Mrs. Leta Hamby, Mrs. Wayne Brackney, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gray, Mr. and Mrs. William Sloan Jr. and the pastor, Rev. Glenn Daugherty.

The convention sermon was given by Harry B. Adams, Carbonale. The luncheon speaker was Fred Hughes, missionary to South America, and four foreign students from S. I. U. spoke to the group.

The evening address was given by Edmund C. Miller of Columbus, Mo.

Unite or Die, Adenauer Warns Western Europe

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany said today that Soviet Russia wants to push the United States out of Europe to seize control of the entire continent.

He warned the free European nations to unite or die.

"Everywhere in the countries of the West, we can see Soviet attempts to undermine states, to paralyze them by threat, fear and terror, and to win them by promises and propaganda maneuvers," Adenauer told Parliament.

In a major policy statement during a foreign affairs debate in the lower house (Bundestag), Adenauer said:

"Soviet Russia first wants to push the United States out of Europe, then to undermine Free Europe, and finally to absorb it."

He appealed to the peoples of Free Europe to "realize the seriousness of the time."

France, Italy Delay Pact

"We must realize that if the unification of the European nations fails the existence of this continent may topple."

Adenauer reiterated his government's policy on European integration, and added:

"If the European Defense Community has not yet been ratified by all signatory powers, it is not the fault of the German government. Our decision has been taken. We have done all that we had to do. We regret to have noticed that national egoisms are fighting the tendencies of European unification."

France and Italy are still to take action on the six-nation pact which would set up an anti-Communist defense force including 500,000 Germans. In addition to West Germany—Belgium, Luxembourg and The Netherlands have complete parliamentary ratification of the treaty.

Soviet Bloc Has 6 Million Men Under Arms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia has a "ready-made spearhead" of armored divisions in East Germany that could strike the West at a moment's notice, diplomatic officials said today.

The high officials, whose information is as authoritative as any in any Allied hands, also said Russia and its Red satellites in Europe now have more than 6,000,000 men under arms backed by a "strong capability" in atomic weapons and guided missiles.

Representatives of the North Atlantic Treaty nations reviewed Russia's war strength in a meeting in Paris last week, and reports on the subject have become available since.

The Soviet bloc, according to the officials, is fast erecting an "effective air defense belt" along the East-West frontier in Europe and rapidly equipping its air forces with jet aircraft, including advanced types of heavy bombers.

The Red spearhead in East Germany was said to consist of 22 Soviet divisions, mostly armored units with tanks and self-propelled guns. Supporting them are 60 other Soviet divisions in Eastern Europe and West Russia—not including 80 satellite divisions.

The informants estimated that Russia and her satellites could expand their present overall force of 255 divisions to 400 divisions within 30 days after the start of a war.

Merchants Lose To Paducah, 8-2

The Harrisburg Merchants dropped their first game in five starts last night to the Paducah Chiefs, 8-2.

Bobby Malone, the Merchants' hurler, stood the Chiefs on their ears for seven innings before a strained shoulder muscle forced him to the sidelines. Malone allowed the Kitty leaguers only two hits while whiffing six hitters before yielding to Joe Yarbber, who was the victim of a nightmare in the eighth frame.

The Merchants tallied a marker in the first stanza when Logsdon walked, raced to third on Gully's ace, and scored on Junior Dunbar's triple to the center field wall. The Chiefs retaliated on a free pass, a stolen base and a fielder's choice. The hosts then took a one run lead on a two base blow and an error on a dropped ball.

Carver, the Paducah hurler, and Malone then battled on that basis until the Merchants' infield died

Bull Dogs, Sesser Tie for Second In 3-Team Meet

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs yesterday afternoon tied with Sesser for second place in a triangular track and field meet won by Benton at Benfon.

With the points 5-4-3-2-1 in the individual events and 5-3-0 in the relays, Benton finished with 81 and Harrisburg and Sesser had 61½ each.

Harrisburg points were scored as follows:

Ronnie Williams won the mile. Bob Beal won the shot put and discus, the mile relay team composed of Joe Dorris, Ted Price, Jack Oze and Tony Beal was first, Joe Dorris tied for first in the high jump.

Richard Applegate tied for second and Jim Williams was fourth in the broad jump. Gary Trammel tied for fifth in the pole vault. Don Price tied for third in the high jump. Tony Beal was third in the shot put. Gary Trammel was second and Fred McKenzie was fifth in the low hurdles. Don McGowan tied for fourth in the 220. Don McGowan was third in the 100. Joe Dorris was second and Ted Price third in the 440. Don Smith was fifth in the half mile and the Harrisburg freshman relay composed of John Dardeen, Fred Feazel, Jack Oze and James Beal was second.

The winners: 100-yard dash: Williams S 10.9. 220-yard dash: Williams S 24.6. High hurdles: Galloway S 18.3. Mile: Williams H 5:09.4.

Varsity relay (fifth mile track): Sesser 1:30.

440-yard dash: McKemie B 54.4. 880-yard run: Ervan S 2:12.4. Mile relay: Harrisburg 3:20.1.

Fresh relay: Benton 1:33.9.

Low hurdles: Atterbury B 23.1.

Shot Put: Bob Beal H 47.5.

Discus: Bob Beal H 133-1.

High jump: Joe Dorris H and Doty B tied first 5-6.

Pole vault: Phillips B 9-6.

Broad jump: Smith S 17-8.

The annual South Seven meet will be held at West Frankfort tomorrow, the preliminaries starting at 6 p. m., the finals at 7:30.

Ralph Dupas, 18-Year-Old 'Whiz', Beats Pat Brady

NEW ORLEANS — Ralph Dupas, 18-year-old New Orleans "whiz kid" fighter, said today he hoped his victorious performance against Irishman Pat Brady in a 19-round nationally televised fight would give him a chance at a "lot more TV appearances."

"I wanted to give a good fight, especially since I was on television for the second time," he said after his unanimous decision Wednesday night over the 26-year-old Brady, who couldn't cope with the elusive "French Quarter darling."

In his first televised fight last Jan. 2 against now lightweight champion Paddy DeMarco, which he lost, and in other events, Dupas got the name as a hit and run fighter, but he punched it out Wednesday night to win going away.

Dupas, who weighed 137 pounds, 13½ under Brady, opened light cuts over both the New Yorker's eyes in the first round, and peppered them continually in every round in going after his 50th victory in 56 professional fights.

Shawneetown High School Notes

The annual Junior-Senior banquet and dance will be held Thursday evening, April 29, at the high school gymnasium. Ernie Lempus and his band will furnish the music for the dance, following the recognition banquet. The gymnasium has been gaily decorated for the evening's festivities.

A large crowd was present Tuesday evening at the high school gymnasium for the annual Spring concert presented by the music department under the direction of Mrs. Mearl Orman. Lawrence Rich served as accompanist.

The concert was well received. The band played several numbers, and the chorus presented a variety of vocal selections. The All-Girl chorus and the Junior-Senior girls sang several numbers. Solos were by Harrison Newsom, who sang, "The Desert Song," and Irene Scherrer and Shirley Wilson, each of whom played a clarinet solo.

The FFA boys will enter the livestock judging contest to be conducted at Eldorado on May 7. This is a sectional meet and some 20 schools are expected to participate. Last Friday during the regular assembly program period, a tractor driving contest was staged on the ball diamond. Charles Scherrer finished first, Bobby Spottville second and Charles Morton, third.

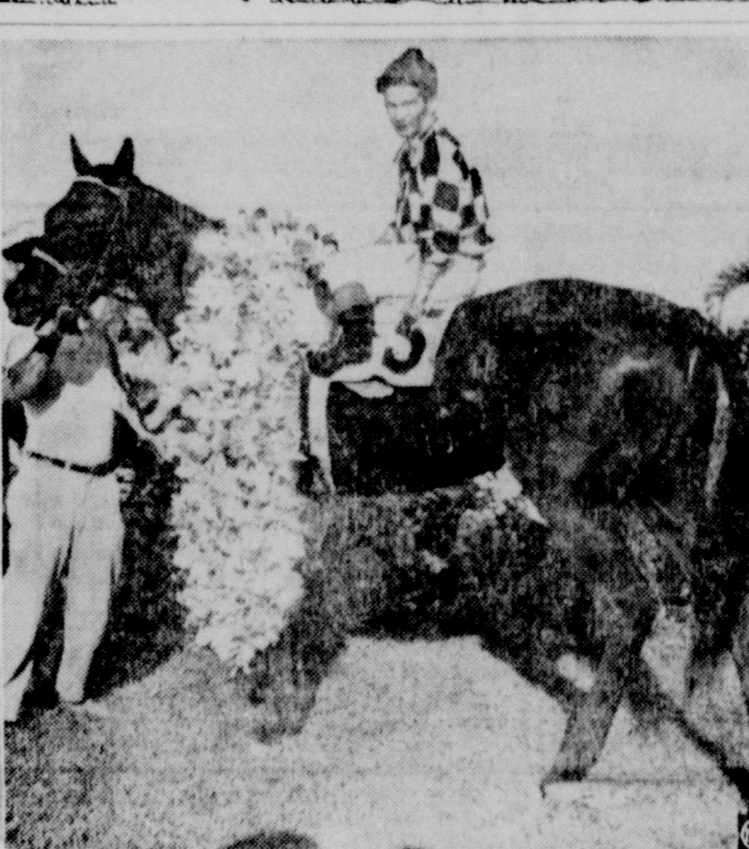

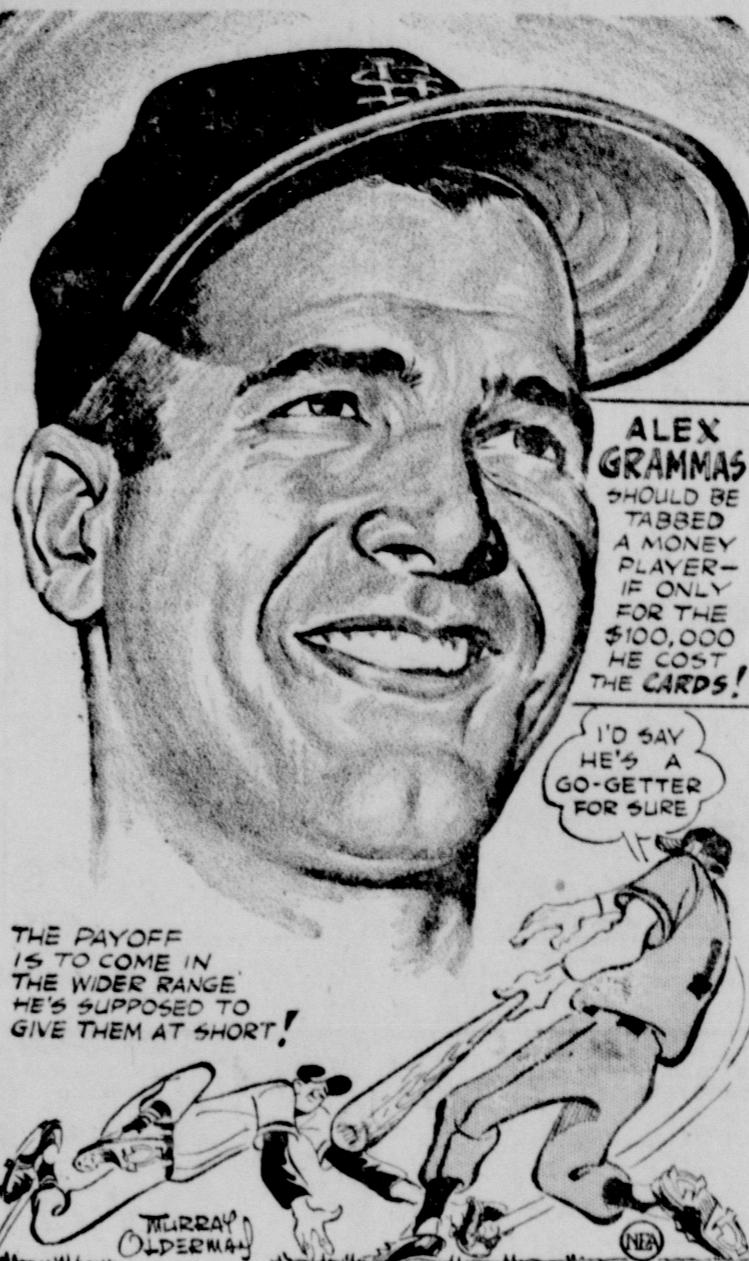

The high school baseball team, which trimmed Carrier Mills last Friday, 10-1, will play next Thursday at Ridgway. A game is also being sought with Equality next week. These games will wind up the team's regular season play. It will, however, compete in the annual tournament, journeying to Norris City where it will meet Carrier Mills.

Body of Man Found in Well at Centralia

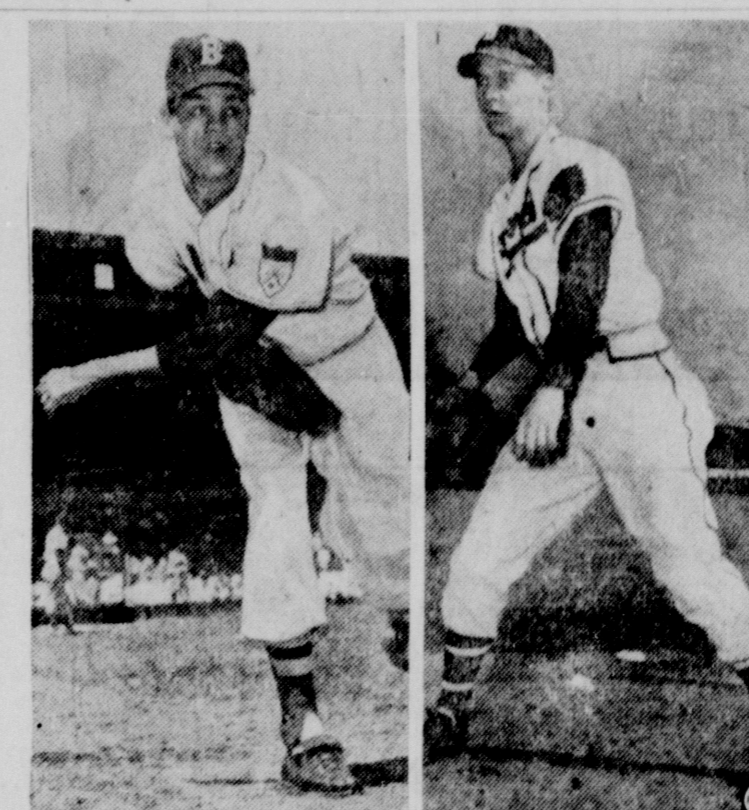

CENTRALIA, Ill. — The body of Phillip Blaise, about 54, was found in a well at the rear of his home Wednesday night and a coroner's jury ruled he committed suicide.

Blaise had been ill. A neighbor found the body when he searched for the oil field laborer, who had been missing since Tuesday.

Schine Refuses Invitation to Attend Hearings

WASHINGTON — Pvt. G. David Schine has turned down a formal invitation to attend the TV hearings on the Army-McCarthy row in which he plays a leading role.

Lt. Col. Robert B. Pridgen, executive officer at Fort Myer, Va., told a reporter that "Schine stated that he didn't desire to sit in on the hearings." Pridgen said Schine gave no explanation and "made no other statement whatsoever."

The Army has charged that Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and two staff members of his Senate investigating subcommittee applied pressure to obtain special treatment for Schine, former unpaid subcommittee aide who was drafted into the Army last November. Available for Subpena

Pridgen said he was called Wednesday afternoon and asked to relay the subcommittee's invitation to Schine. Schine asked to have "some time to think it over." Pridgen said, and took 2½ hours before returning with his answer. Schine showed up at the subcommittee's office shortly after Pridgen notified him he had a right to attend the hearings. But

Cardinals Beat Dodgers, 6-5; Stanky is Ejected Third Time This Season

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Manager Eddie Stanky, whose temper has a mighty short fuse, was finding out today that his Cardinals can win just as well without him.

The little pepper-head was tossed out of a game for a row with an umpire for the third time this season Wednesday and as on the previous occasions, the Cards scored a leader-less triumph.

The latest victory was their most significant of the young campaign for it was their second in a row over the champion Dodgers, 6-5 in 10 innings and it enabled them to replace Brooklyn in second place in the National league race.

Seventh Win in Last 9 Games
Both Coach John Riddle and Stanky were removed by Umpire Frank Secory in the ninth inning. Riddle for protesting a strike call against the Cardinals and Stanky for protesting Riddle's removal. Dodger outfielder Dick Williams went out in the top of the 10th, also for complaining over a call by Secory.

It was the seventh Cardinal victory in the last nine games and it came dramatically. After Ray Jablonski walked, pinch-runner Dick Schofield, the bonus boy shortstop, stole second and scored on a single by Steve Bilko off losing reliever Jim Hughes. Jablonski, Rip Repulski and Stan Musial got three hits apiece in the 14 safe blows collected by the Redbirds. Gil Hodges hit his fifth homer for the Dodgers to take over the major league lead.

Reds Win, 8-4

Stanky previously was ejected on April 18 when he jostled Umpire Lee Ballanfant and the Cards went on to defeat the Cubs 6-4, then was put out against Cincinnati on April 21 when he refused to stay in the third base coaching box and Birdie Tebbetts, the Reds' manager protested the 4-2 defeat formally to league President Warren Giles.

KILL WITH CARE By Hugh Lawrence Nelson

XXXII

Jim Dunn flung himself backward through the open door of the shed, twisted as he fell so his assailant took the main force of the fall. A fist from nowhere connected with one of Jim's eyes, and bright streaks of purple and yellow cut across his line of vision. He had the fleeting thought it had not been too bright to break the throat hold. He grabbed with his left hand, caught a firm hold in a mop of hair, used the hold as a guide for a right cross. He got a grunt of pain for a reward. A fist went by his head, nearly taking an ear with it.

Jim swung again, realizing that the dark bulk had lost its first violent frenzy, was gasping for breath. Dunn got to his knees, pulled the man upright and swung again. It was only a glancing blow, but his assailant was torn from his grasp, stretched on the floor.

Jim found the light switch. He had his hand on his gun when he looked down into the battered face of Vern Bruce.

Vern Bruce sat up slowly, felt the side of his jaw where a knot was forming. He reached in his pocket, took out a glasses case, and put on his bifocals.

"Guess I'm not as young as I was."

"Not as young as you were when you once killed a man?"

"Know about that, do you? Well, there were mitigating circumstances. And I paid for it. I got mad and lost my head entirely."

"But you still haven't said why you jumped me."

"Heard something in the shed, and one of my cats was upset. Saw the light inside and came over to investigate. The cat came with me. When you came outside and hurt my cat—well, I guess I lost my head."

Jim Dunn touched his eye gingerly. It was rapidly swelling shut, and his head felt as if his skull was flapping. "I'd just turned off the light and was still blind. I can't see in the dark even if you and your cats can."

Vern Bruce took his words as an apology. "It's all right. I shouldn't have jumped you."

"That man you killed so long ago. Did that have something to do with animals?"

"He was beating a horse," Bruce said.

Jim Dunn was suddenly thankful indeed that Vern Bruce had learned to distrust guns. "Maybe it's a good thing you're here at that. You know anything about power tools, and electric wiring?"

"Sure," Bruce agreed. "You know, I've had a hankering to see some of these tools of Mansfield's. Have it coming to me in one way. Every time he'd come out here and work, my radio would go on the fritz. Buzz to beat the Dutch."

"I think you're really going to be a help," Jim said. "At least I think you've cleared up one point. Why Eddie Stone's radio was left going. Eddie got a signal and left his room right away."

Once more the gallery of cats watched them from their balcony on the other side of the fence.

It was 5:30 when Richards arrived. Richards looked from the bruises on Jim's face to the swellings on Bruce's. "What goes on?"

"Never mind that," Jim said. His eye was swollen shut now and he wanted to get this over with. He walked over to the dressmaker's dummy, put the oversize coat around its shoulders. The wire connecting the specially constructed works inside the dummy to the light switch was coiled and hidden, but the long heavy cord which stretched the length of the room was in plain sight. "Ready," Jim said to Vern Bruce. "Start the lathe going."

Bruce pushed a switch. The cord began to wind around a spindle on the lathe as it revolved. The cord tightened. The dummy moved, seemed to come to life. It moved quickly and silently on its oiled wheels, moved at about the pace of a man walking along the cleared path toward the lathe. Jim Dunn walked along, just behind it. Even now he had to steel himself, had to tell himself it was only his imagination which made the moving dummy resemble the figure, the broad back of Otto Drover. He held a metal ice pick in his hand, and as the dummy moved past the staring Mark Richards, Jim stabbed the dummy in the back at the exact point where the old coat showed signs of so many previous stabblings.

The dummy moved closer to the lathe, and Bruce turned off the current.

"Wait another minute," Jim demanded. He and Bruce unrolled the string, restored the dummy to its original position, recoiled the electric wire which had unrolled as the dummy had moved. "This time, when the dummy moves, you stab it, Mark." He handed the all-metal ice pick to Richards. "Stab it where the heart would be. Understand?"

Richards wet his lips and nodded his head. He balanced the ice pick in his hand.

"Start the lathe, Bruce," Jim ordered.

Once again the dummy started its gliding motion across the floor of the long shed. As Jim had done before, Mark Richards walked behind the dummy, moving into striking position.

He stabbed suddenly.

He yelled. He was flung back, hit the wall of the shed. The ice pick flew from his hand, narrowly missed Vern Bruce. He kept his feet, and stood there propped against the wall, rubbing his arm which still tingled from the heavy electric shock.

Arctic Air Hits Northern U. S.; 6 New Tornadoes

By United Press

Winter played an encore today as snow swept the northern plains on strong north winds.

A blast of Arctic air spread snow to depths of five inches in sections of Montana, Wyoming and the Dakotas. Temperatures dropped to 17 above zero at Great Falls, Mont., and it was three degrees below freezing at Bismarck, N. D.

The snow piled up five inches deep at Williston, N. D., and four inches deep at Glasgow, Mont.

Forecasters said the new cold front would push south to the Gulf during the week.

Meanwhile, an earlier squall line touched off six new tornadoes Wednesday night.

Two tornadoes were sighted 20 miles north of Waco, Tex., but did no damage. Others were reported seven miles northeast of Fulton, Miss., near Tupelo, Miss., a mile south of Savannah, Tenn., and 30 miles south of Columbia, S. C.

The Fulton tornado injured two persons in addition to destroying two houses, two barns and considerable timber. The twister in Tennessee demolished a store and damaged a half-dozen houses.

The new tornadoes brought the nation's total for the last three days to 23.

The Weather Bureau warned that the cold front on the Canadian border would bring new showers today to Wisconsin and Minnesota areas troubled by floods. The Chippewa River in Wisconsin overflowed into sections of Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls Wednesday.

Forecasters promised, however, that the rain would end Friday when dry and cool air overpreads the upper Mississippi Valley.

Sitka was capital of Alaska under Russian ownership and until 1912 after its purchase by the United States.

'Operation Bootstrap' Style Show Held at Eldorado

MORE THAN 300 PERSONS jammed into the education center of the Methodist church at Eldorado for the style show and some 100 others had to be turned away because of lack of space as more than 2,000 persons from Eldorado and surrounding communities took in the home show at Eldorado where 32 merchants displayed their products. The style show climaxed a two-day home show Friday and Saturday. In the center photo little Cathy Lynn Wasson is understandably proud of the pinafore she modeled and in the lower right photo Joyce Barton is one of the models in the style show who ranged in age from five to 50 who displayed the latest styles for women and girls. The models stepped through a magazine page and walked under a flower-covered archway onto the ramp. Photo at upper right shows the crowd present at the style show. At the lower left are shown Miss Susann Schrader, Mrs. Carl Johnson and her daughters, Carleen and Bonnie, at the open house in the new Teen Town on the third floor of the city hall where punch and cookies were served Sunday afternoon. Upper left shows a group of young people at the open house. Identified left to right are Jim Lyons, Bill Putnam, Bob Laffoon, Joyce Carnahan, Janet Draper, June Cuthbertson and Ann Cuthbertson. 10 Large Cities Levy Income Tax

CHICAGO — Pittsburgh and Cincinnati have joined eight other cities of over 150,000 population in taxing the personal incomes of residents.

Philadelphia was the first city to adopt the tax, according to the Commerce Clearing House, national reporting authority on tax and business law. That was in 1939. Since then the plan has been followed by Louisville, St. Louis, Scranton and four other Ohio cities—Columbus, Dayton, Toledo and Youngstown.

The clearing House said that in most cases, surrounding suburbs and townships quickly adopt income taxes similar to those in big cities. In the Pittsburgh area, for example, more than 20 communities have adopted income taxes to retain their share of the levies on their residents who work in Pittsburgh.

The taxes range from 1/2 of one per cent to 1 1/4 per cent. Seven of the larger cities also have income taxes against corporations, ranging from 1/2 of one per cent to one per cent. These cities are Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo, Youngstown, Louisville and St. Louis.

Pleads Not Guilty To Assault and Battery In Gallatin Court

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND
By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Dulles Showed Worry Over France At Pre-Geneva Meeting; Promised To Stand Firm Against Recognizing Red China; Senator Ellender Gets Results Without McCarthy Bal-lyhoo.

WASHINGTON. — The troubles Secretary of State Dulles is having at Geneva were pretty well anticipated by him even before he left Washington. In fact, he outlined them fully and pessimistically during a closed-door session of the Senate Foreign Relations committee just before he took off.

Secretary Dulles had received a report from the American embassy in Paris which caused him grave concern about the French government's stability and the French political situation generally. The French, it was reported, were becoming more and more torn apart, so that anything—even revolution—might happen.

Dulles touched on some of this briefly during his closed-door talks with senators.

"There's no telling," he said, "what the French might be saying to the Russians privately at Geneva."

Prodded by the Democrats, the secretary of state insisted that we couldn't rush France into granting independence to the three native states of Indo-China.

"When a man is holding a bandit, you cannot keep beating him on the back of the head," shrugged the secretary of state.

He told how he had an appointment to meet Vietnam's Emperor Bao Dai in Paris during an earlier trip, but the emperor never showed up. Dulles suggested confidentially that the emperor had been sunning himself on the Riviera and that there were probably "too many restaurants between the Riviera and Paris."

WHY NOT FORMOSA?
Senate Majority leader Knowland of California, sometimes called the "senator from Formosa," wanted to know why Formosa and South Korea hadn't been included in the Asiatic NATO proposal.

"We can't do everything in a week," replied Dulles, acknowledging that Knowland's friend,

Chiang Kai-Shek, may later be invited to join the Pacific security pact.

Dulles presided at the closed-door meeting and did most of the talking. One of his sharpest critics, GOP Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, had to leave early.

"Do you have anything you would like to say before you leave, Styles?" asked the secretary of state. Bridges smiled, shook his head, and walked out the door.

However, Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Alex Wiley of Wisconsin paused as he also was about to leave and remarked how "greatly disturbed" he was over the Geneva conference to get world recognition for Red China.

"Your fears are unfounded," replied Dulles. "We will not recognize Red China at Geneva under any circumstances."

Note—Dulles didn't breathe a word about the special resolution he had asked congressional leaders to endorse at their last meeting together. Dulles had pleaded with them to push a resolution through Congress, approving in advance any action the President may decide is necessary to take in Indo-China. Both Republicans and Democrats overwhelmingly opposed the idea.

MCCARTHY AND SENATORS
Though most senators fear McCarthy and few will criticize him publicly, not more than three or four really like him. This applies to both Republicans and Democrats.

Chief reason is that McCarthy is essentially a showman, not a senator. His attendance record is the worst in Washington. He is off speaking in every corner of the United States instead of being on the Senate floor. He pays no attention to the tough, difficult legislative routine by which laws are passed. And significantly, not one piece of legislation of any importance has ever passed Congress bearing his name.

In contrast is a quiet, unassuming senator who has been in Congress 18 years—Allen Ellender of Louisiana. The average newspaper reader in the north hasn't heard much about Allen Ellender. That's chiefly because he doesn't do much bragging, though he has a lot of things he could brag about.

Some of the most constructive bills in Congress were introduced or co-authored by the senator from Louisiana—including the Wagner-Taft-Ellender Housing act for slum clearance, various sugar-quota bills, federal aid to education, the original farm price support bill, and the school-lunch program.

Some time ago, Senator Ellender went to South America to study Communist infiltration there, and upon his return gave a comprehensive, closed-door report to the Senate Appropriations committee. Other senators, including Joe McCarthy, listened intently as Ellender told how poverty, dictatorship, and agents from Moscow had combined to spread the Communist doctrine in Guatemala, and to a lesser extent in some other countries.

Next day, Ellender got a phone call from the junior senator from Wisconsin.

"Allen," said McCarthy, "I heard your report on South America yesterday and I've the TV and radio equipment all ready for you to testify tomorrow morning before my committee. We'll give you coast-to-coast coverage."

"Allen," McCarthy added, "I'm going to make a big man out of you."

Politely, Ellender said no. He explained that his report had been for constructive criticism, not publicity, that publicity would cause a wave of anti-U. S. feeling and set back the pro-American leaders of Latin America. He did not take the trouble to tell his Wisconsin colleague that when it came to being "a big man," he Ellender, had his name on a dozen laws which had built up the nation, McCarthy had his name on none.

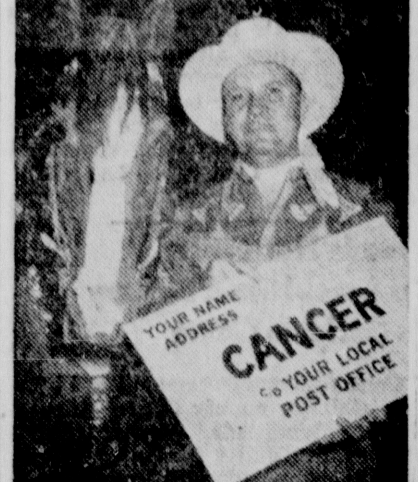

Congresswoman Wants National Nurse Week

WASHINGTON.—Rep. Frances P. Bolton of Ohio is sponsoring legislation to proclaim Oct. 4-9 as "national nurse week."

The Republican congresswoman said the week would honor the professional nurses of America in recognition of their service in promoting "the national health and welfare."

She wants the week to: (1) interpret nursing to the public; (2) promote community projects thru-out the nation; (3) stimulate student nurse recruitment; (4) emphasize through the press, radio and television the service rendered by nurses.

William Butler Yeats is regarded as the greatest of the modern Irish poets.

FROM THE HORSE'S MOUTH—
Cowboy star Gene Autry's famous horse, Champion, seems to be telling everyone where to mail a contribution to the American Cancer Society's 1954 Crusade. Gene adds, "It makes real horse sense to strike back at a disease that will strike one in five of us."

Mrs. Pearl Ewell and Elmer Swafford of Pontiac, Mich., visited over the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barnes. They were accompanied home by Joan, Janice and Jimmie Barnes for an extended visit.

And Why Not?

WHYNOT. N. C. 09 — For those who want an explanation of this town's peculiar name, records show that when the town fathers met to decide on a name they argued for hours.

There were countless suggestions. "Why not this?" and "Why not that?" and "Why not so and so?" Finally they agreed on just "Whynot."

Top Designers Feature Wool Jersey

Wool jersey, a fabric that's full of surprises this spring, turns up in daytime dresses and a suit, all by top designers. Balmain's yarn-dyed gray-mixture wool jersey (left) is slim at front, has low-placed fullness at back. Short sleeve is all-in-one. A black silk blend is worked through a pleat effect to create the high empire line. Creamy wool jersey in honeycomb pattern (center) is used by Claire McCardell for sheath dress (center) with straight front and back pleats that release at knee for fishtail effect. Navy blue and white wool jersey jacket (right) with side vent and three-quarter set in sleeve is worn with straight navy blue skirt. Both jacket and skirt are by Heatherlane.—By GAILE DUGAS, NEA Women's Editor.

Harrisburg, Eldorado Women Attend Meeting at Mt. Carmel

Twenty women from Harrisburg and Eldorado attended the Day of Recollection held Monday at St. Mary's church at Mt. Carmel.

Beginning at ten o'clock the sermons were delivered by Rev. Jas. R. McCormick, superintendent of St. John's orphanage in Belleville, followed with prayer and meditation period.

At 12 noon the ladies of the Altar society served luncheon to 200 women and nine priests present in the school hall.

In the afternoon the sermons were again delivered by Fr. McCormick followed with prayer and meditation period.

Since this is a Marian church those attending had the opportunity of gaining special Marian Year indulgences.

The meeting was closed with benediction of the Blessed Sacrament by Rev. Ray Donovan, pastor of St. Mary's church at Mt. Carmel.

Pankeyville Naomi Ruth Class Has Two Socials

The Naomi Ruth Sunday school class of the Pankeyville Baptist church met Thursday night of last week at the home of Mrs. Blanche Shacklett for the regular class social. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Charles Norman, vice president, presided over the meeting.

The meeting opened with the song Sweet Hour of Prayer, after which Mrs. Floyd Lacy, a visitor, gave a beautiful devotion on "Christian Love," using as her scripture the 13th chapter of First Corinthians.

Roll call was answered with a scripture verse containing the word death. Plans were made for the collection of material needed for handiwork in the coming Vacation Bible school.

Mrs. Nancy Sadler received a prize in a Bible contest, and Mrs. Bettie Daniel received a prize for finding a toothpick in her piece of angel food cake that Mrs. Shacklett had baked.

At the close of the meeting the ladies all stood in a circle and prayed for the revival meeting which is to begin at the Pankeyville church next Sunday. The Rev. Charles Holland is to be the evangelist, and Bob Burnett will lead the singing.

Each quarter the class has an attendance contest and the side that loses entertains the winners. During the past quarter Mrs. Alta Norman and Miss Ethel Crank have been group captains. Since Miss Crank's group has had the best attendance, Mrs. Norman and her losing team surprised the winners with a "come as you are" party and wiener roast Monday evening.

The winners were not only brought to the party as they looked but were furnished a hat to wear with their costumes.

Following the wiener roast the hats were judged, and Miss Gertrude Wason received first prize. Rev. and Mrs. Ray Daniels and Mrs. Lacy were the judges.

The group captains for the next quarter are Mrs. Lois Harner and Mrs. Oma Myers.

Those present at the social were Rev. and Mrs. Daniels, Mrs. Lacy, Mrs. Marie Yarbrough, Mrs. Hattie Moyer, Mrs. Fannie Foster, Mrs. Stella Wallace, Mrs. Mary Shell, Mrs. Ruth Gates, Mrs. Bettie Norman, Mrs. Nancy Sadler, Mrs. Oma Myers, Mrs. Fannie Owen, Mrs. Mary Ritsch, Mrs. Lois Harner, Miss Flora Chambers, Miss Carolyn Hayes, Miss Gertrude Wason, Walter Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Norman.

Mrs. Dewey Durfee Hostess To Social Brethren Class

The Royal Daughters class of the Dorrisville Social Brethren church met at the home of Mrs. Dewey Durfee, April 22, for the class social.

Roll call was answered with a Bible verse, and the devotion was given by Mrs. Gertrude Cook. New officers elected were Eula Pinchoff, president; Essie Souheaver, vice president; Gertrude Cook, treasurer; and reporter, Goldie Dunn.

Alta Dixon and Goldie Dunn then led in prayer.

Refreshments were served to those mentioned and to the following: Louise Butler, Marie Sullivan and Doris, Oma Johnson, Frankie Moore and Nina Vaughn.

Galatia Past Matrons Club of C. E. S. Chapter Meets

The Past Matrons club of Galatia chapter, No. 950, Order of the Eastern Star met at the home of Mrs. Velma Griggs Monday April 26, at 7:30 p. m.

Past matrons present were Mrs. Gladys Williams, Mrs. Blanche Horn, Mrs. Myrtle Ryan, Mrs. Edna Purnell, Mrs. Lucille Abney, Mrs. Nell Ray and Mrs. Velma Griggs.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Gladys Williams. Lucille Abney and Nell Ray were in charge of the program. Games were played, and prizes won by Gladys Williams and Myrtle Ryan, after which refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Blanche Horn.

Miss Donna Spurlock and Elwood Harris Marry

Mrs. Edna Spurlock, 412a West Raymond, is announcing the marriage of her daughter, Miss Donna Spurlock, to Richard Elwood Harris, son of Mrs. Myrtle Banks, 430 South street, Harrisburg.

The wedding took place Sunday, April 25, at 2 p. m. at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hicks, 412 West Raymond.

The single ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ned Sutton, pastor of the General Baptist church where the bride and bridegroom are members.

The bride chose for her wedding a suit of soldier blue with black accessories and a corsage of red rose buds.

Mrs. Helen Hicks, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Harvey Hicks served as best man to the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris are now residing at 1102 West Largest street. Guests present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Melton, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shewmaker, Mr. and Mrs. George Fowler, Mrs. Gene Lacy, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Banks, Cecil Downey, Mr. and Mrs. Irvan Harris and son, Larry, Mrs. Fred Hamp and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lee, Clifford Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hicks and daughters, Marilyn and Patty Sue, and the bride's mother, Mrs. Edna Spurlock.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY!

MOVIES - TV - RADIO
by Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Look into the control room and a young lady shoved Johnson and Miss Lynn into a couple of chairs on the living-room set.

Then the green-eyed camera blinked and the soundman gave us a cue to start talking. We talked about Diana's movies and career for 15 minutes and it was all very pleasant.

"TELEVISION, I can now report, is here to stay," I said. "You bet it's here to stay," Landsberg said later.

"Why, we can screen pictures now as big as those in film theaters. After the war you'll be seeing football and baseball games!"

The program (the entire evening's program) read:

"Test Pattern—Recorded Music—8 P. M.

"Erskine Johnson Interviews Diana Lynn—8:30 P. M.

"The Miracle of Morgan's Creek," told by Preston Sturges, with slides from the Paramount picture—8:45 P. M.

The proceedings were in charge of a man named Klaus Landsberg, who was everywhere at once.

He supervised the make-up—three shades darker than film makeup—checked the brown lips (they had to be brown, he said, because of the lights), lined up the cameras, warned everyone to "keep it informal," then rearranged the sets and the lights and the cameras.

There were two cameras. One for close-ups. Another for long shots. There was a big green light on each camera, to indicate "On the Air."

There was a living-room set for my interview with Diana. "Just sit and talk—like you were at home," Landsberg said.

THE TEST PATTERN with the recorded music went on the air for a half hour. (It took people a half hour to tune in their sets in 1944.)

During the entire half hour Landsberg turned one of his cameras on a title card giving the station's call letters. It was then that the shapely legs of Preston Sturges' secretary—Jean LeVeil—made their debut by mistake.

Unaware the camera was live, Jean walked right between the lens, which was close to the floor, and the title card. "Oh, no," yelled Landsberg.

Jean blushed, and then almost knocked over a panel of lights in her confusion.

Then Landsberg disappeared.

and news events while they happen in your neighborhood theater.

"Most of the technical 'bugs' have been exterminated. Now it's only a problem of waiting for the war to end to get receivers and stations built."

Klaus Landsberg started in Europe with television, then worked for the Dutch and British governments and now is director of Paramount Television Productions, a Paramount subsidiary—the only film studio with its own TV station.

His job, right now, he said, is to develop the right entertainment technique for this new medium.

But this, of course, did not include the legs of Preston Sturges' secretary.

THAT WAS TELEVISION IN 1944.

In 1944 there were SEVEN television sets in all of Los Angeles.

GEORGE SANDERS on his song-writing:

"I wrote one song, 'When You Make Love.' It had absolutely no merit at all. I've passed over that phase of my life, anyhow."
